Invitation to Volunteer

The International Academy of the Jurisprudence of the Family will be holding a Symposium focusing on Parenting on the 15th and 16 July 2011 at the Aula Magna University of Malta, Valletta campus. Distinguished academics from all over the world will come together to present and debate on issues relating to parenting and will include Baroness Ruth Deech from the University of Oxford, Professor Oran Doyle from Trinity College Dublin, Prof Scott Fitzgibbon from Boston College of Law, Prof. Olga A. Dyuzheva from Moscow University among many others.

As co-convenor to the forthcoming Symposium on Jurisprudence of the Family, I write to invite 3-4 students to contribute to this event by helping to provide logistical support. This will be a wonderful opportunity to meet and listen to many key academics in the field of family law and might even inspire or help you in your proposed dissertation and future career.

The symposium is scheduled to start at 2pm on Friday 15th and will close after a full day on Saturday 16th at 5.30pm. Your input would also be required at a brief session prior to these dates in order to clarify your role.

Kindly send your expression of interest to james.bonnici@um.edu.mt as soon as possible and no later than 17 June 2011.
