MALTA UNIVERSITY PRESS
EDITORIAL BOARD

1. The undersigned author warrants that the work being submitted for publication by the Malta University Press is his/her own original work, generally on the assumption that it has not been published before. (If it has, in one way or another, this must be specified).
2. The author undertakes to abide by the MUP guidelines and to deal only with the University of Malta's Editorial Board, responsible for the Malta University Press, as a publisher, throughout the peer review, publication and sales process, and to respect decisions and deadlines. The author undertakes not to deal directly at any point with the printers or other third parties with regard to the product. In the event of any unauthorized costs being incurred these will be the direct personal responsibility of the author and may lead to the cancellation of publication.
3. The author undertakes to proof-read the pre-publication text in earnest without unduly changing it.
4. Copyright will vest in the author but the publisher will have the right of first refusal in the event of re-publication in a subsequent edition.
5. Royalties of up to 10% will be paid on profits and, depending on budgetary considerations, generally on sales, in due course.
6. The author will be entitled to ten complimentary copies of his/her work.
7. An abstract of the work (not more than two pages) is herewith attached by the author together with a short C.V. (not more than two pages), including academic qualifications, present occupation, and any published works.
