

Professionals in Parliament

The graph below shows the share of seats occupied by members of some major professional groups: those from law, medicine, architecture and civil engineering. Given the paucity of official information, no reliable data could be computed for other and newer professions such as economists and managers who have become more numerous in Parliament in recent years.

The information on which the graph is based comes exclusively from data provided on the Official Declarations of Results of Poll. The "law" category includes both LL.D.s and Notaries.
