ENGLISH

The English examination papers for admission into Forms I to V will broadly follow the same pattern. However the papers will be set at different levels of difficulty related to each stage of the five-year course, the terminal goal of which is the General Certificate of Education at ordinary level.

At each level the paper will consist of the following sections:

LANGUAGE

A multiple choice exercise covering a wide selection of miscellaneous language items to assess the candidate's mastery of important aspects of language in use. Examples: word order, tenses, punctuation, vocabulary, idiomatic expressions and basic structures.

The exercise will consist of a number of examples in which a word, a group of words or a sentence is omitted. The candidate is presented with a number of possible alternatives of which only one is the correct answer.

In addition, further exercises will be given to test separate language items which may or may not have been covered in the exercise mentioned above.

COMPREHENSION

A prose passage will be set to assess the candidate's ability to understand the passage as a whole and in its parts.

Although some of the questions on the passage may be of the multiple-choice type, there will be open-ended questions at each level. Questions about the meaning of words, groups of words, and sentences in context may be set.

In the case of admission into Forms IV and V one or more of the questions may test the candidate's ability to extract relevant points about a particular aspect of the passage and/or to present these in his own words. However, candidates will not be asked to reduce the whole passage into a given number of words as in the traditional precis type of question.

COMPOSITION

The candidate's ability to express himself in continuous prose at the appropriate level is an important part of the examination.

An exercise in free composition will be set at each level.

There will be a choice of subjects one of which may test the candidates' ability to write in the form of a letter.

Candidates will be required to attempt only one subject. Although quality is more important than quantity, marks will be deducted if the length of the composition is less than 200 words at Form I and II level, 250 words at Form III level, 300 words at Form IV level and 350 words at Form V level.

Mistakes in sentence construction, spelling and punctuation will be penalised (all levels).

Candidates will be rewarded for orderly presentation of material — including paragraphing — and for the suitability of style to the subject matter taking into account the particular level.

Candidates are advised to spend about one third of the examination time on this question.

LITERATURE

One question may be set to assess the candidate's response to ONE of the following: poetry, prose and drama. There will be no element of choice in the question. Since no texts are prescribed the question set will be of a general nature and appropriate to the level of the particular paper.

ADMISSION INTO FORM I ONLY READING COMPREHENSION EXERCISE

A set of sentences will be given in which one word or a group of words is left out. Five possible choices are presented; the candidate is required to choose the correct answer to complete the sentence.

The aim of the exercise is to assess the ability to read — in context at the sentence level. The words and groups of words presented will be of a fairly high frequency such as are likely to have been met by the candidate during the primary years in any systematic course of reading instruction.

Candidates are advised not to spend more than ten minutes on this question.

Notes (all levels)

(1) There will be no questions of a formal grammatical nature (e.g. clause analysis) at any level. The use of grammatical terminology will be kept to the barest minimum. It must be stressed that, at all levels, the assessment of the candidate will be based on his productive competence of language in use and not on knowledge about the language (e.g. grammatical definitions).

(2) The duration of the examination will be of 1 hour 45 minutes for admission into Forms I, II, and 2 hours for admission into Forms III, IV and V.

MATHEMATICS

Students sitting for the examinations in mathematics should note that:

- questions in the examination papers for entry into each of Forms I to V may be set on any part of the syllabus for the preceding years.
- mathematical tables will be provided but students should bring their own mathematical instruments.
- the use of calculators will not be permitted at any level.
