THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF DRAMATIC ART

The Academy was founded in 1904 by Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, and in the first years of its life carried on operations in the dome of the famous Her Majesty's Theatre, Haymarket, London. Shortly after removal to Gower Street — in the neighbourhood of University College — the control of the Academy was vested in a council composed of distinguished actors, writers and men of the theatre. In 1909 Mr. Kenneth Barnes was appointed Principal. He held this office for forty-six years receiving his Knighthood in 1930. His Majesty King George V granted the Academy its Royal Charter in 1920.

Sir Kenneth Barnes retired from the position of Principal in 1955, and the Council appointed Mr. John Fernald as his successor. Mr. Fernald has spent over a quarter of a century in the English theatre, first as an actor and subsequently as a producer.

Many distinguished people have served upon the Council, including Sir James Barrie, the creator of Peter Pan, and Bernard Shaw. The President of the Council is Dame Flora Robson, who recently had a great success in London as Mrs. Alving in Ibsen's "Ghosts", produced by John Fernald; among its members are Dame Sybil Thorndike, Dame Edith Evans and Sir Laurence Olivier.

The Academy's present two-year course provides a thorough stage training and admits only pupils intending to take up the theatre as a professional career. The course is planned so that a year of thorough basic technical training is followed by a year of active acting in the Academy's Vanbrugh Theatre before members of the public. From the possession of this theatre springs the Academy's ability to turn out skilled professional performers who have learnt their craft through the actual practice of it.

Apart from visiting several towns in England, R.A.D.A. companies have toured Switzerland, giving performances in Basle, Geneva, Montreux and Vevey. In February of this year a company performed Shaw's "You Never Can Tell" in Oslo and in thirteen other towns in southern Norway.
