One of the most poignant moments from the splendid performance of Heiner Müller's Hamlet Machine by the Spanish company ATALAYA. This performance had its London premier only a few weeks before it came to Malta. It was enthusiastically received at both occasions, as well as in many other countries and its highly successful tournees.