EISENSTADT, S.N.,(ed.), A Sociological Approach to Comparative Civilizations: The Development and Directions of a Research Programme, The Hebrew University, Jerusalem 1986. (67 Pages).

A publication of The Harry S. Truman Research Institute for the Advancement of Peace. This institute is within the Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. The publication is divided in three parts. The first part consists of a report on a research programme about Comparative Civilizations. This programme includes: (1) Studies of Modernization and their Reappraisal; the ways in which different societies take the 'leap' into the modern world; the discovery between tradition and modernity; (2) Comparative Historical Studies and Studies of Modernization; (3) The Comparative Analysis of Civilizations including Axial Age Civilizations; (4) Reappraisal of the Visions of Modernization and Modern Civilizations: Israeli Society and Jewish Civilization. The second part is an attempt to set up a theoretical framework for the study of comparative civilizations, since such study is connected with general problems of sociological analysis and with the major theoretical controversies in sociology. The third and final part is an Appendix including Tables of contents of publications, conference papers and working papers which were to be published in 1986.
