

Unidentified artefacts 8

UA0026

A clay bowl, beige in colour (Fig. 1), for a tobacco pipe was found in Marsaxlokk harbour, Malta. This type of pipe is known to have been found on sites dating from the 16th century in the Sudan and East Africa and no doubt in many other places but has not been the subject of the study which the common clay pipe of western Europe has received. Reports of other finds would be appreciated.

*John Wood
18 Park Road, Sherington,
Bucks, MK16 9PG, UK.*

Marsaxlokk, Malta.

Beige clay

Figure 1. UA0026—clay bowl for a tobacco pipe.